Today I celebrated my 22nd Anniversary. 22 years ago I was injured and I am still going strong. As part of the celebrations Gerda and I decided we would invite a few friends to the airport for a braai and to witness first hand the amazing progress that is happening to the aircraft.

Owen is doing an amazing job and even I was duly impressed when I arrived at the airport. It was only a week ago that I was there and to see the aircraft in primer was a real thrill. Thanks once more to Owen and the entire team at Randall Aviation for the fantastic work done so far.

Thanks to all those who made it out to the airport. There must have been about 30 people that came in and out during the day.
