

Power of 10 Support

Written by Arthur D Piercy

Sunday, 27 November 2011 23:37 -

It seems I am either doing something wrong or my marketing strategy is totally useless.

I honestly thought - no actually believed - that finding 1000 enthusiasts or supporters would be a piece of cake and that I would have raised the necessary money to have the Seawind flying already!

Where did I go wrong??? Is there someone out there that can guide me and or supply me with a solution???

Is R100 a month still too much in these economic times or am I barking up the wrong tree?

Just about every where I've been people have asked - How can we help? - and when I mentioned the total cost required they fall off their feet. So I thought I need to make it more affordable for the average man on the street.

I've missed something so I appeal to all you marketing guru's out there - Throw some advice in my direction please!!!!!!